Gauge the Facts

MIJA We Perform Under Pressure

> When the pressure is high, you need proven reliability and accuracy. That's what MIJA gauges have delivered for more than 30 years. And that's why more people depend on our gauges than any other in North America.

How Well Do You Handle Pressure?

At MIJA, we've made it our business. You'll find us wherever there's a need to gauge the status of pressurized devices. Tanks for portable fire extinguishers, fire protection systems, health care, industrial gases and personal recreation rely on MIJA's rugged, reliable spiral wound Bourdon tube pressure gauges to deliver critical information that helps save lives, protect property and guard assets.

MIJA has gauges to suit your most demanding requirements. We manufacture spiral-wound Bourdon tube gauges in various sizes and hundreds of stock and custom configurations in our North American plant. MIJA gauges are more robust and vibration resistant than C tube gauges, making them perfect for demanding applications. Choose from our stock of UL listed gauges to monitor a range of pressures, or bring your specifications to MIJA's engineers and innovators for a custom developed solution.

Turn to MIJA when you need the best quality, delivery and availability in standard or custom pressure gauges.

Do You Know Where Your Fire Extinguishers Are?

92% of fires can be put out with a single, properly maintained fire extinguisher. But too often extinguishers aren't in their designated places, have lost pressure or malfunction due to vandalism or tampering.

That's why MIJA invented enGauge. enGauge fits portable fire extinguishers into your life safety systems, monitoring extinguishers for pressure, presence and obstruction.

Commercial Fire codes mandate 30-day visual inspections of fire extinguishers – yet industry research shows that fewer than 15% are checked monthly, and only 34% receive annual expert inspection. enGauge solves the problem, continually monitoring fire extinguishers for pressure, presence and obstruction in settings as varied as condominiums, retail centers, government installations, laboratories and manufacturing facilities.

enGauge's easy flexible installation – wireless for existing buildings or wired directly into a fire or security panel in new construction – puts experts, plant managers and fire protection experts in control. Link your portable fire extinguishers to your central alarm panel and eliminate the worry about their reliability and performance.

Residential Insurance experts estimate more than nine people are fatally injured in home fires each day, with nearly 400,000 residential fires reported annually.

enGauge makes portable fire extinguishers a reliable part of home safety. Pull a fire extinguisher off the wall and the alarm monitoring company can immediately know if something is wrong. enGauge offers new levels of protection by continually monitoring fire extinguisher pressure and automatically notifying when pressure drops or an extinguisher is removed from its designated location.

Simple to install and easily tied into existing home alarm systems, enGauge extends the functionality, value and protection of home security systems. For today's smart home, there's only one product that provides complete, constant monitoring of fire extinguishers: enGauge.

Suppression Using enGauge technology, MIJA developed the enGauge Switch, a revolutionary device that combines a pressure gauge and pressure switch in one unit. Now suppression system manufacturers can eliminate the need for an independent pressure switch, utilizing enGauge as a single monitoring point that also provides an early warning load detection signal to the suppression system/alarm control panel, reducing the loss of expensive fire suppression agents. The enGauge Switch lowers assembly costs, providing a versatile, cost-effective solution for manufacturers.

For more information about MIJA's industry leading pressure gauges and enGauge, call 1.888.ENGAUGE (1.888.364.2943) or visit MIJA.com.

UNDERSTAND THE LATEST IN FIRE PROTECTION

Developed by MIJA, the leader in the design and manufacture of pressure gauges used on fire extinguishers, enGauge gives you the opportunity to extend the value and functionality of home security systems. enGauge automatically sends a signal to a central monitoring station via the home security system if an extinguisher loses pressure or is removed from its designated location. Remote monitoring station can alert service to other customers and homeowners benefit from an extra measure of safety and peace of mind.

enGauge equipped fire extinguishers are available in a Residential Support Module (RSM). The RSM automatically alerts monitoring station via the home security system, alerting fire department and service to the extinguisher status and location when the RSM is removed from its designated location. The RSM can be used in a variety of ways:

- In a home security system, where the RSM is connected to the security system's central station.
- In a home security system, where the RSM is connected to the security system's central station.
- In a home security system, where the RSM is connected to the security system's central station.
